

Ecological Conversion - Fr. Donal Dorr

No wonder, then, that Pope Francis is calling people all over the world, and our governments, to wake up and to become 'ecologically converted'. He wants us to realise that we have a crucial role to play in the extraordinary web of life and to have a sense of wonder at its beauty and complexity. But he is also asking us to allow ourselves to become painfully aware, to dare to turn what is happening to the world into our own personal suffering (LS 19). He wants us to let ourselves be almost overwhelmed by the reality of the damage that we humans are doing to the Earth and its most vulnerable inhabitants, through climate change, pollution and the tragic loss of biodiversity. If we let ourselves really feel part of the whole web of life which is being so damaged, and feel both its beauty and all the suffering and loss, we will, hopefully find the energy and commitment to change the present destructive style of development and living.

I venture to add that I, as a Christian who is part of the more privileged segment of humanity, I have to acknowledge that many of the comforts of my life come at the price of irreparable damage to the Earth, and the exploitation of its poorest inhabitants. For instance, it is quite likely that the materials in the batteries in my mobile phone have been dug up by exploited under-age workers, in mines that are destroying the environment, and then turned into batteries by very poorly paid workers, in factories that are over-crowded, unhealthy, and in danger of collapsing or going on fire. So I find myself benefitting from a system that is truly sinful. This means that I am morally bound to work to change the system.

Now that we are coming to see that our way of life causes so many people to be impoverished and exploited and leaves the whole web of life under increasing threat, we must commit ourselves to care for our Earth by developing what Pope Francis calls an integral ecology (Laudato Si' 137, 156, 159, 225, 230). This involves living in a manner that respects the environment.

We see that we are obliged to join with others in campaigning and putting pressure on local, national and international politicians, governments and business leaders to put in place a set of laws and international treaties to prevent the exploitation of vulnerable people and our vulnerable Earth. Furthermore, we must commit ourselves to repairing the damage that has already been done by human activity to the community of living beings on Earth. In this way we can play our part in ensuring that we humans live in a respectful relationship, both locally and globally, with each other, with the other creatures that share our planet and with the Earth itself.

The Synodal Pathway

The Irish Bishops' Conference has announced it has proposed to embark on a synodal pathway for the Catholic Church in Ireland leading to the holding of a National Synodal Assembly within the next five years. The initial two-year phase of embarking on the synodal pathway and leading, in time, to a National Synod, helpfully coincides with preparation for the 2022 Ordinary General Assembly of Bishops in Rome entitled, For a synodal Church: communion, participation and mission. Before embarking on the Synodal Pathway consultation, between Easter (5 April) and Pentecost (23 May), 2021, bishops are inviting submissions to reflect on what methods/models to adopt in these coming two years of conversations. For example: focus groups, questionnaires, deep-listening sessions; written submissions; family-focused gatherings; summary of findings of assemblies that have already taken place across dioceses; and/or conferences. For more information about the Synodal Pathway and how to submit your response, see www.catholicbishops.ie/synod

Let us Dream The Path to a Better Future – Pope Francis in conversation with Austen Ivereigh

After seeing reality around us we must choose, which demands that we spend time to discern the signs of the times and listen to each other and the Holy Spirit in a synodal approach.

A "stoppage" (in life) can always be a good time for sifting, for reviewing the past, for remembering with gratitude, who we are, what we have been given, and where we have gone astray. These are moments in life that can be ripe for change and conversion. Each of us has had their own "stoppage" time, or if we haven't yet we will someday: illness, the failure of a marriage or a business... a disappointment or betrayal... At such moments we need others to walk with us... people who are wise, who have been through the fire, who can help you navigate what is to come. (Pp 35-36)

Prayer to St Joseph, Patron of the Church, Patron of Workers, Guardian of the Redeemer and often invoked as Patron of a Happy Death.

To you, O blessed Joseph, do we come in our afflictions, and having implored the help of your most holy Spouse, we confidently invoke your patronage also. Through that charity which bound you to the Immaculate Virgin Mother of God and through the paternal love with which you embraced the Child Jesus, we humbly beg you graciously to regard the inheritance which Jesus Christ has purchased by his Blood, and with your power and strength to aid us in our necessities.

O most watchful guardian of the Holy Family, defend the chosen children of Jesus Christ; O most loving father, ward off from us every contagion of error and corrupting influence; O our most mighty protector, be kind to us and from heaven assist us in our struggle with the power of darkness. As once you rescued the Child Jesus from deadly peril, so now protect God's Holy Church from the snares of the enemy and from all adversity; shield, too, each one of us by your constant protection, so that, supported by your example and your aid, we may be able to live piously, to die in holiness, and to obtain eternal happiness in heaven. Amen.

Prayers of the Faithful

That as Joseph and Mary welcomed the gift of the Child Jesus, may all mothers and fathers prayerfully nurture their children's vocations and especially encourage an openness in those who are called to serve the Gospel.

For an increased understanding among our young people that they are uniquely chosen by God to be his disciples through their particular vocation; we pray especially for those who have been called to marriage or single life.
