St Therese entered the enclosed Carmelite Convent aged 15. In her short life, she sought to be holy. The Superior asked her to write her thoughts on her vocation/life. She wrote 6 full copy books, and they were put away but after she died aged 24 they were given to a small publisher and 2000 copies were printed. This became entitled later as "The Story of a Soul". Her famous phrase was "I shall spend my heaven doing good on earth" and she described her life living as "The little way" May Richard continue to do his good intentions on earth while he rests in heaven.
